Palmyra District (COMO)

It is said that there is not at present a single claim worked in Palmyra district, and that the town of COMO is dead, and pretty much deserted. Hopes are entertained by many of revival at some future day, perhaps when the great Overland Railroad gets across the mountains, who knows what they may not do in the development of what are now worthless claims?

The Frankfort claims, situated just north of Palmyra in the Indian Springs district, is in active process of development under the superintendent, J.B. Billiard, with fair prospects of success. This claim is located about one half mile down a ravine from the famous Whitmore Ledge.
