10/13/64 Visited district, talked with caretakers, Mr. & Mrs. Greg Johnson, Golconda, Nevada. Owner of the two main properties, Adelaide (in valley) and Adelaide Crown (above mill) is: Mr. Roy A. Hardy

Adelaide Crown Mining Co.
First National Bank Building
206 N. Virginia St.
Reno, Nevada

They have been over run with geologists this summer; a few last year, but not many compared to this. Among others: Bear Creek (Don Adair); Union Carbide; an unnamed oil company from Phoenix that blew in with two helicopters. Two men of unknown origin spent a week in their cabin, mapping the area. A crew of geophysicists was supposed to be out about now to work over property to north of camp (about the nickel hill, I guess) which is not owned by Hardy. Nevada Lead ~~Mine~~ Co. property, which is to south and owned by another Johnson, is supposed to have ~~an~~ a drill in soon.

Evidently no drilling has been done in area, and no formal geophysics; probably helicopters were doing something, and probably has been some recon mag work. I saw no sign of any claim staking in area, and no sign of drilling or surveying of any kind.
