It is understood that work is about to be resumed on the Carpenter Nickel Mines, at the head of Dixie Valley, says the Review-Miner.

A watchman has been employed on this property for many years, and for a time, the difficulty of having the nickel ores smelted prevented active work. Preparations now are being made to put the property in shape, and again begin taking out ore, which in the event of war in which this country might be involved, would be of great value in furnishing a metal which Germany has for many years been supplying this country. Nickel deposits, of considerable extent have been discovered from time to time in this state, but because the nearest smelters at the time were in Canada, there was not much incentive to work them, although with a high price on the metal, they would probably become paying propositions.
